GREAT DANE CHAMP FOR COMING SHOW

Hill's Dagebert a Wonderful Dog.

CAREER AS PRIZE WINNER

Began by Taking Five Firsts in New York-In Class by

Perhaps the most famous dog that will compete at the District of Colum bia Kennel Club show the latter part of this month will be the champion Dagobert, a Great Dane belonging to William Curtiss Hill, of this city

Dagobert is about the finest dog of his class in America. He is registered as Dagobert, A. K. C., No. 77866, out of Nourmahal and Roemer's Pluto, both champions. At the age of five months Mr. Hill bought him from I. D. Apple by, of the famous Appleby kennels of Baltimore, for $40, in 1904.

When the animal was thirteen months at the Madison Square Garden show in February, 1904, where he swept the boards, winning first prize in each of the five classes to which he was eligible, including the coveted first in win ners' classes, gaining in one day five of the necessary ten points toward his championship. A few months later he was entered at Atlantic City, where h won the firsts in all the events for which he was eligible. These were the two opens, the limit and the winners' classes, all of which netted him three more points for the title of champion, Too Good for Some Classes.

Again at Philadelphia Dagobert wor all the events in which he was entered including another winners', which made including another winners', which made his third win in this class. After the Philadelphia show he was recognized as a full-fledged champion, having twelve points to his credit. Shortly after this the dog was shown at Pittsburg, where his receipt of blue ribbons was simply a repetition of former occasions. Here he won the two opens, the limit and the winners'. This gave him four victours in the last class which made him ineligible to again compete in it.

He will be given a tryout at pitching and will most likely get a berth as a utility man whether or not he makes good in the Minver, da

After the Pittsburg exhibition he was taken to Boston, where he again cleared the board for three firsts, and following this appearance he went to Brooklyn, carrying away with him three more. At the show in Wissahicton, just outside of Pulladelphia, he was awarded three firsts again. At the show in New York, which has just chosed, Mr. Hill's dog with him three firsts.

Among Dagopert's long list of prizes are some thirty or more, all firsts, beliates a number, of pecials. It may be further remarked concerning this dog, that at the New York show he establiate a record of being the first American-bred Dane owned south of Philatelphia to have won there, and the first Dane owned south of Philatelphia to have won the honor.

A game called indoor baseball has been tried out in the University of Michigan gymnasium by the "co-ed" students, the game and rules being de-signed for women. The men students who have seen the game profess in-tense weariness, and say that bean bag compared with it would be outlawed for brutality.

Cosgrove, the recently appointed baseball coach at Princeton, has not yet accepted the position, and may not. Since graduating at Old Nassau, Cosgrove has been employed in the Westinghouse establishment at Pittsburg, and unless he is granted a four months' leave of absence he will decline athletic work.

David Billington, the English swimmer, the only man to hold the late B. Kieran, has been declared a professional by the English sporting authorities. ## Spring Suits At Half Price has crowded our store all day, simply because the men of Washington realize when the E. B. Store makes a reduction it's honest and genuine. These fancy suits are left-overs from the season of 1905. They are in every way and respect just as good and as stylishly made as this season's garments will be. But rather than mix them in with the incoming stock, we are going to dispose of every garment in the lot at exactly half price. This sale started today, and will continue until all are gone. Judging from the big volume of business today it won't last long. Men, get in tomorrow; take advantage of this opportunity to be stylish and correctly dressed in a new spring garment at just one-half former
